Anti-Inflation Measure May Soon Go to FDR

—Washington

Washington, Oct. 1 — (P) — A speedy adjustment of Senate and House differences which would send the administration's anti-inflation legislation to President Roosevelt for his signature within 24 hours was forecast today by congressional leaders.

Senator Barkley of Kentucky, the democratic leader, said he saw no reason why the bill should not be introduced before the president by tomorrow. That would be one day beyond the deadline set by Mr. Roosevelt in his Sept. 7 you-do-it-or-I-will message on cost of living controls.

Backed by an 82 to 0 vote in the Senate, administration lieutenants sought to obtain agreement by House members to the major features of a compromise Senate version directing the president to stabilize prices, wages and salaries at Sept. 15 levels, so far as practical.

This would entail a reversal of the House vote to alter the basis of computing farm parity standards and "acceptance" of an administration-sponsored amendment inserted by the Senate directing the president to raise price ceilings where they did not reflect to growers the increase in labor and other costs since Jan. 1, 1941.

Senate approval of this latter provision by an 86 to 4 vote yesterday ended an eight-day battle between the administration and Farm Bloc members over the conditions under which price ceilings would be placed on farm products.

Besides the farm price provisions, several other major differences in the House and Senate bills remained to be ironed out.

The Senate measure directed the president to act by Nov. 1 to stabilize prices, wages and salaries at Sept. 15 levels, while the House voted for stabilization at Aug. 15 levels without any deadline on action by the chief executive.

Washington, Oct. 1 — (P) — A wartime speed limit of 35 miles an hour for privately owned automobile sales went into effect throughout the nation today but enforcement methods varied from imposition of strict penalties in some states to appeal to patriotism in others.

The office of defense transportation which ordered the restriction to help conserve the nation's rubber stockpile, declared all 48 states were taking some step for enforcement.

Additional efforts at rubber conservation came from the Office of Price Administration which froze sales of used tires and tubes pending completion of a new rationing program governing the articles just as present regulations control use of new and recapped tires.

The ODT said the order for the national speed limit sets no penalty and that enforcement would rest largely on voluntary cooperation by the motorists and on action of state and local authorities. All governors empowered to set state speed limits already have fixed the 35 mile an hour figure, it added.

The 35-mile an hour restriction exempts vehicles operated by the armed forces and those used in emergency for protection or preservation of life, health or public safety. The regulation is effective Oct. 15 for vehicles operated for hire as carriers in scheduled regular route service.

ODT Freezes Present Rail Schedules

Washington, Oct. 1 — (P) — Director Joseph B. Eastman of the Office of Defense Transportation, today ordered the "freezing" of all railway passenger schedules and ruled out the operation of special trains to football games, races and other sporting events.

The order, effective October 4, restricts railroads to the passenger train schedules existing on September 26, forbids the running of any special passenger trains on the addition of new trains to existing schedules.

It also bans the running of extra sections to regular trains unless such sections have been run at least 20 per cent of the time during the last 90 days to handle the normal flow of passenger traffic.

Also, under the order, no railroad may operate a passenger train which includes a car "chartered to or the use of which by prior arrangement is restricted to an individual group of persons travelling together."

This would rule out special cars, or cars chartered to or used by baseball teams or travelling orchestras. This prohibition, however, does not apply to cars used by railroad officials or employees on railroad business.

Engineers say that the lighter the oil the less motor drag and the more miles per gallon on gasoline.

The continuous production of iron and steel-making furnaces during the winter months of 1943 is dependent upon the acquisition of 7,000,000 tons of iron and steel scrap in steel mill inventories by January 1, 1943.

"Since the critical demand for armament of all types can only be met by an uninterrupted production of steel ingots, all industry must at this time make every effort to dispose of its scrap through dealer channels or directly to consumers."

"Particular emphasis, however, is placed upon the necessity of moving dormant scrap items which represent very large and exceedingly important scrap tonnages over and above the flow of normal production scrap."

"Dormant scrap is defined as obsolete machinery, tools, equipment, dies, jigs, fixtures, etc., which are incapable of current or future use in the production effort because they are broken, worn out, irreparable, dismantled or in need of unavailable parts necessary to practical re-employment. Dormant scrap should not be construed to apply to reusable machinery, equipment, dies, jigs, fixtures, etc., which can be turned over in the future by users to others or, with or without repairs, in work which contributes directly to the war production effort."

"Government's grave responsibility to supply American armed forces with ships, guns, airplanes and tanks necessitates adopting the above program and insisting that industry follow this policy in regard to dormant scrap."

"It hasn't been used for the last three months and no one can prove it can be used in the next three—find a use for it or scrap it."

Newsman Have Good Record Duty, Service

By CHARLES E. MERCER

New York, Oct. 1 — (P) — The men who make business of converting the world's events into ink so that all may read and know paused today and figuratively took stock of their record.

The occasion was the opening of National Newspaper Week.

America's press had plenty to put itself on the back about. But it was too busy helping to win a war—not alone any more than is any single fighter worker or industry, nor even any single nation.

Its commander in chief, Franklin D. Roosevelt, put it this way:

"Our freedom has not on survived—it is an essential part of the steady ballast which enables our ship to ride the storm."

"Upon his return to the White House the president announced he would hold a press conference late today for the purpose of giving the Washington correspondents the story of his trip. He was accompanied on the inspection tour by representatives of the AP, UP and the INS."

Uncertain Future—

Gary, Ind.—A woman on trial in city court for fortune telling without a permit confidently informed Deputy Prosecutor Metro Holovachka, "of course I can tell the future."

"Very well, then," the prosecutor answered. Tell us what horse is going to win the first race at Hawthorne."

"I cannot compete with the proper vibrations in the disturbing atmosphere of this room," the soothsayer said.

Judge John M. Roberto promised to tell the woman's fortune in the form of a verdict Saturday.

Aussies Pursue Fleeing Japanese in Moresby Area

—War in Pacific

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Australia, Oct. 1 — (P) — Australian troops were reported driving steadily up the southern slopes of New Guinea's Owen Stanley mountains today in pursuit of retreating Japanese forces after recapturing Nauro yesterday in a swift 10-mile advance from Ioribawa ridge.

An Allied communiqué announced in advance said the Japanese were abandoning additional supplies and equipment as they fell back and an Allied spokesman declared they were no doubt their withdrawal was hurried.

Strong formations of Allied attack bombers, escorted by fighters, were reported harrying the enemy supply lines in the vicinity of Menari, about four miles north of Nauro, where it was believed the Japanese might attempt to make a stand along a ridge offering defensive possibilities.

He latest Allied advance apparently was negotiated with comparatively little opposition, for the communiqué said there had been no contact with the retreating main body of the enemy forces. It was the first time Allied headquarters had used the phrase "main body" in referring to the Japanese retreat.

Allied heavy bombers continued to pound Buna, main Japanese coastal base 75 miles northeast of Nauro, and the intermediate depot of Kokoda.

Other Allied air formations attacked Japanese bases in the northern Solomons, scoring many direct hits on the Buna airbase on Bougainville island and bombing the airfield and supply dumps on nearby Buka.

Elliott and the small auxiliary transport Gregory off Guadalcanal Island in the Solomons on Aug. 8. # John Bull Unmoved at Hitler's Retaliation Boast

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Wide World War Analyst

London, Oct. 1.—Herr Hitler's boastful promises to his people yesterday that he will retaliate against Britain for the bombing raids on Germany find John Bull quite unmoved and stoically reconciled to renewal of the Nazi war from the air.

However, while there can be no question of Der Fuehrer's intention to resume his aerial hymn of hate, there is a considerable doubt as to whether he will be able to carry out his plans. He no longer is the mighty man he was before he tangled with the unconquerable Bolsheviks. He can't just say, as of old, "Let Britain be bombed," and know that his genteel has done the job.

Hitler's ability to conduct further wholesale bombings of Britain is contingent on several important things. One of them is whether the Allies open up that second front about which he has shown by deed and word that he is worried.

His declaration yesterday that he is ready to meet such an offensive is at least partly true, for his defensive preparations in western Europe have been obvious. Should such an Allied operation evenuate, the all-highest might find him far too busy meeting it to permit of bombing Britain.

For months now the German efforts against Britain have been confined largely to nuisance raids.

At present, virtually all Hitler's air power, apart from essential home defense, is engaged in his now-or-never assault on Stalingrad and the Caucasus. One wouldn't expect him to withdraw any of this strength for some weeks yet until he achieves all he can before winter calls a halt.

However, once the Caucasus show slows down, the Nazi chief will be able to withdraw a large part of his air fleet.

Whether then?

Well, it strikes me that he will be faced with numerous difficult problems which are developing.

In the first place, his air fleet is no longer the great weapon with which he started the war. As reported previously in this column, he is short of warplanes, pilots, oil and gasoline.

A corollary to this problem is the Anglo-American air strength already in the British Isles, and steadily growing. The Allies have superiority in the air over Western Europe and are reaching for absolute supremacy.

Then, since Hitler slacked off on his bombing of Britain when he started his offensive against Russia this summer, defense of the air—both air and ground—have been vastly strengthened.

Maybe Hitler will have other projects on hand at that time. For instance, he might decide to throw his strength into his now stationary offensive against Egypt. He might try to reach the Middle East by using his air force against Syria, bypassing Turkey.

Finally we come down to the question of that second front. In connection with this it is interesting to discover that the British public is experiencing a lively bunch that the Allied high command is cooking up something in the way of a new offensive.

As a matter of fact, I've encountered this feeling among military observers on both sides of the Atlantic recently. There's nothing you can put your finger on to show where the idea had its birth, though its very persistence encourages belief that it isn't without substance. Now along comes Der Fuehrer to say he's seen the ghost.

In view of the fact that both Britain and America have stated they are preparing an offensive and will get into action as soon as feasible, it's not illogical to think that something might pop somewhere any time.

It seems that "second front" and Western Europe have become synonymous in the minds of many of his public, both in Britain and America. Signs are that it will be safer not to try to pin expectations to that area or to any other specific zone at this time. There are several useful places where the Allies could strike.

Anyway, it's clear that if and when the Allied command decides to open a new front it will have the eager support of the people of Britain and the United States. That support is calculated to provide inspiration for action when it is wholly feasible. Maybe that's what Wendell Willkie had in mind when he said some of our military leaders may "need some public proding."

He was the headline writer's for-

Market Report

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, Oct. 1.—(P)—Bullish traders bought one-way tickets on the rails in today's stock market and stoned road issues, on average, speeded up to new high territory for the year to date.

Buying seeped into airlines and other selected industrials, with activity expanding on the swing. The revival came under a slightly uneven opening. Gains, running to 2 or more points for favorites, were well maintained, although they were well maintained near the close although volume dwindled and quotations were reduced here and there by profit cashing.

Wall streeters still were more or less inflation-minded notwithstanding the wage-price bill passed by the Senate and this, as much as anything else, apparently served as a prop for sentiment.

Transfers for the full proceeds of the war were in the neighborhood of 600,000 shares.

GRAIN & PROVISIONS

Chicago, Oct. 1.—(P)—A grain market advance based on Senate passage of anti-inflation legislation which would raise commodity loans granted by the government to producers was short-lived today and late profit taking reduced or erased the gains.

Wheat touched highest prices since early summer before the reaction occurred. Late selling was blamed partly on uncertainty as to whether higher loan rates for basic crops were mandatory and whether they will apply to 1942 production.

Wheat closed unchanged to 1,400 higher compared with yesterday, compared with yesterday, December, $1.28 7-8-1.29, May $1.31 3-4-7-8, corn unchanged to 1-2 up, December, $3-5-8, May 90 1-2, oats 3-8-12 lower; soybeans 5-8 lower to 1-2 higher; rye 1-4-7-8 lower.

The first car of new corn was received here from eastern Iowa. It graded sample, showed 28-1-2 per cent moisture and 13.3 per cent bagage.

Corn No. 2 yellow 84 1-4-86; No. 3 white 1.10. Oats No. 1 mixed 53-53 1-4; No. 2 white 53; No. 1 special red heavy 53 1-4.

Der Fuehrer Can't Crowd Out Baseball

By KENNETH L. DIXON

Washington, Oct. 1.—(P)—Ignoring Pancho Villa's astute precedent of 25 years ago, Adolf Hitler, clean-up man on the Axis ball club, walked up the American publicity plate and popped out yesterday.

Washington front pages showed that on the nation's news diamond, Der Fuehrer's sportspalat peeped played second fiddle to a hunk of hot horsehide out in St. Louis.

In the capital, where newspapers headlined the victory of the New York Yankees over the St. Louis Cardinals in the first World Series game, Hitler's harangue hardly raised an eyebrow.

He was the headline writer's forgotten man, buried down with the smaller type.

But while government workers kept at their jobs, they cocked one ear for the latest report on Yankee hurler Red Ruffing's seven-inning try for a no-hitter. Officials and employees with a moment's spare time joined reporters in press room, cluttering around radios, teletypes and telephones for play-by-play accounts of the baseball basic.

In estate and house cloakrooms, War, Navy and State departments, the nation's leaders paused in their rush to ask how the Card's spectacular ninth-inning rally had fared. But nobody asked about Hitler's speech.

Now, had Der Fuehrer followed Villa's example, he might have fared better. The Mexican insurrection was planning an attack on the town of Ojinaga in early October of 1917 when Norman Walker of the Associated Press appeared on the scene and asked Walker for his professional advice, and the straight-faced scribe told him to wait until the World Series was over if he wanted to make the U.S. front pages.

"Gracias, Amigo," said Pancho—or something like that—and promptly postponed the attack.

When the series was over, he captured Ojinaga, and made the front page.

130 Mile Pipeline Finished on Schedule

Magnolia, Oct. 1.—(P)—Actual marketing of south Arkansas' sour gas was one step nearer today with completion of the 130-mile pipeline from the Macedonia and McKimme gas cleaning plants to the Jonesill Aluminum plant on Lake Catherine near Hot Springs.

The line was started March 1 and completed on schedule yesterday. It includes 90 miles of 18-inch pipe and 40 miles of 12-inch pipe.

Approximately 200 men were employed in the construction.

The mainline from Macedonia to Perla will supply gas for the permanent power plant to be constructed there. An auxiliary line from McKimme will transport gas to Macedonia and two auxiliary lines from Perla will move gas for fuel to Bauxite.

The Macedonia gas cleaning plant is operated by the Arkansas-Louisiana Gas company which also constructed the pipeline. This plant and the McKimme gas cleaning plant are now under construction.

Interment in Jap Camp Cure for Ulcers

By JACK STINNETT

Washington — The Capital In Washington — One of the Hong Kong internees who returned recently on the Grosvenor was recounting his misadventures to friends. Summing up, he said:

"Aide from the first few days in our camp we suffered no physical indignities. As a matter of fact (this camp had NO military or political internees), after those first few days, our few guards were mostly Chinese or Indo-Chinese."

The food, however, was terrible. We almost starved to death.
Unless you have experienced that kind of tantalizing hunger, it is almost impossible to believe.

"But there was a funny thing about it. Those who went in there suffering from stomach ulcers, gout, gastritis, and such, came out absolutely cured. And a number of men subject to obesity lost their bay windows and sailed for home admitting that they never felt better in their lives."

A little over two years ago, when we still were wringing our hands over the sad plight of Poland, I thought I was writing a column that I thought carried a jarring impact.
It was to the effect that the government employees, exclusive of the Army and Navy, had reached the staggering number of 1,000,000 persons.

Now it's hardly worth a paragraph that civil service officials say that there will be 3,000,000 on Uncle Sam's payroll before the peak of the war effort is passed.
(Note: It will only take about 700,000 more to reach that mark.)

Uncle Sam, in the role of civillian employee, is still having his greatest problem with turnover.

A report by civil service, a couple of hundred thousand new placements, represents a net gain of less than 100,000 employee.
That means that for every two persons hired on a government job these days, there is one or more who quits for a better job, joins the military forces, or simply hangs a note on the door:
"Gone home, I don't like it."

In Washington, the last reason seems to be the most common.

The Navy is really coring with its offer of bonuses to civilian employees who invent or discover method of cutting the red tape and eliminating unnecessary work.

A bureau of medicine and sur-veil the other day for discovering a method of eliminating 19 jobs in his department and saving the Navy from filing about a million sheets of report a year.

Practically enough, the fellow did it by introducing a new rubber band.

Just a day or two before, the Navy gave $100 bonuses to each of two workers at the navy yard here for improvements in the manufacture of radio receiving devices.

The Navy, so far, is the only department that is offering bonuses for cutting war work, but one of the Washington morning newspapers (The Washington Post) is offering a $100 war bond every month to the federal employee who make the most helpful suggestion for improving the service.

Vols Win to Even Up Dixie Series Playoff

Shreveport Sports to a quartet of the Vols, Nashville Association team, and Texarkana Out to Avenge Last Year's Defeat

Several members suffered injuries in football practice yesterday which may force Coach Roy Hume to change his starting eleven against the Texarkana Razorbacks here Friday night.

A sixth inning homer by Charlie English, Southern Association bat champion, broke a 1-1 tie and the Vols went on to score another in that frame and two more in the ninth on four hits and an error. Speer and Brookhurst were topped for a total of 10 hits by the Southern Association champs. Shreveport went hitless after the sixth and Tamulis threw to only 31 batters the entire game.

Several members suffered injuries in football practice yesterday which may force Coach Roy Hume to change his starting eleven against the Texarkana Razorbacks here Friday night.

A couple of fingers and a back are nursing painful but not serious injuries which may slow them if they improve enough to start by game time. However, Stephens, starting center, who has been suffering from a leg injury since the season's opening, is considerably improved and may be able to start again the Hogs.

From Texarkana comes reports that the Hogs are out to avenge a 13 to 7 defeat given them last season by the Bobcats.

The Texarkana Coach, Howard Montgomery, has been putting the Porkers through offensive drills the past week, only on downfield blocking, where they have shown a great improvement. All are in good shape with the exception of Enoch, end, who will probably be ready by Friday night.

The Texarkana team also will be trying to boost their winning streak to three games, having captured two previous contests in as many strong, 142 1-2, Los Angeles, knocked out Earl Turner, 148 1-2, Richmond, Calif. (4).

Ruffin's Dream Shattered by Late Card Rally

By GAYLE TALBOT

St. Louis, Oct. 1—(P)—The picture of Lion-hearted Red Ruffing, in the brinks of World Series immortality, suddenly going to pieces and being pounded from the hill under a four-run assault by the ever-fighting Cardinals still was fresh in the minds of every man, woman and Cards prepared to clash in the second game at Sportsman's Park today.

It was a game, that first one, that will be remembered a long time. Those who saw it probably will forget the final score in time—7-4 for the Yankees—but they will remember how the 38-year-old Ruffing, within one out of a two-hits World Series shutout, had his dream shattered like a thunderclap from the blue.

Some thought the ninth inning deserved to rank in dramatic quality with the storied seventh frame of the final series game in 1926, when old Pete Alexander struck out Tony Lazzeri, and with another wild inning the fourth and fifth innings were well ended. Buddy Hassett doubled Joe DiMaggio home with the first one and Roy Cullenbine's two-bagger scored Red Ruffing with the second. A third also was honestly come-by in the eighth when solid knocks by DiMaggio, Bill Dickey and Hassett, but the last four—no winners, as it turned out—were tainted.

Country Slaughter Card right-fielder, let a couple across in the eighth when he dropped a smash into right-center by Ruffing. It was an extremely hard chance, incidentally, and might have been ruled a hit by a more lenient scorer. Lefty Max Lanier, who hurled the last inning for the Cards, let in the final two Yankee scores with a pair of errors.

Many of the nearly 35,000 spectators had left the park when the Yankees chased far back to pull down his drives before he came up with two down in the eighth inning and pumped a clean single into right field, the first hit off Red the tormentor.

In pitching seven and two-thirds innings of hitless ball, Ruffing, at least, made the previous World Series record of seven and one-third frames, held only by Herb Pennock and Monte Pearson, who were, of course, pitching for the Yankees when they did it.

Wildness, coupled with some jitney support, was what proved the undoing of Mort Cooper, the Cards' ace pitcher, yesterday. He had a world of stuff, but walks kept him in almost constant hot water up to the time he was removed in favor. The first two Yankee runs in the fourth and fifth innings were well earned. Buddy Hassett doubled Joe DiMaggio home with the first one and Roy Cullenbine's two-bagger scored Red Ruffing with the second. A third also was honestly come-by in the eighth when solid knocks by DiMaggio, Bill Dickey and Hassett, but the last four—no winners, as it turned out—were tainted.

Cards staged their amazing outburst in the ninth. They missed something that would have renewed their faith in their team. Starting with Walker Cooper's single that Red Ruffing tagged at third base the Red Birds slugged six hits, including a triple into the right-field corner by shortstop "Slats" Maron.

The bases still were loaded, the tying run on first, when Musial bounded to Hassett as first for the out that ended the game. Spud

Chandler, figured as the probable Yankee starting pitcher in the third game at Yankee Stadium Saturday, finally had retired the side.

Kyser's Band to Tour Army Camps in U. S.

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York — Every time it is announced that Kay Kyser intends making a personal appearance with his band at an Army camp, he receives between 500 and 1,000 letters from mothers, wives, and sweethearts, begging him to look up their sons, husband and fiance, so that they can shake hands and say hello personally. Kyser goes all out for pleasing the folks back home, just as he does the camps. He prepares a list of names given him in these letters, and after the program, these men are brought forward and Kay shakes hands with each of them and relays the message sent them by their ever lovin' women folk.

Deni Dudley, blonde actress daughter of a New York drama critic, has a theatrical reputation as being altogether irrespressible. In Claire summited Doris up by saying, "She'll be a legend before her time." However, Doris has puzzled the critics by alternately giving magnificent performances and others not so magnificent. Currently, she is appearing in a film to be called "City Without Men," and when she went to Hollywood her employers said they hoped she would forget her screwballism. Doris agreed to be a good girl. In one of the scenes of the film Miss Dudley was to be kissed by Michael Duane, but instead of waiting for Duane she seized the young man and did the embracing herself. The director was angered. "Why do you do that when it is the who is supposed to kiss you?" hooted Sid Salkow.

Mis Dudley lowered her long lashes until she rested lightly on her cheeks. "Can I help it if I'm affectionate?"

In the dark and sultry days that come down on Manhattan, such as today, with the wind whipping and the rain lashing, most people duck their heads and face it scowling. Occasionally, however, you run into a real sunny disposition who actually enjoys the bad weather. Reason: these are hay fever victims. The pollen has been washed away. Temporarily, the sneezes are out of order.

Another point: more and more you see people carrying boxes of cleansing tissues under their arm instead of hankie. Hay fever victims, and them a boom. They are not what others think. You see them on the avenue or on buses with their boxes of cleaning tissue in their umbrella arm at any time.

Why not send Benito Collado a postcard? The chief of El Chic, who once was a lieutenant of Pancho Villa, is in the Desert Sanatorium, Tucson, Arizona, for a rest. Broadway and Greenwich Village miss the man who has done more for authentic Spanish entertainment in NY than any other nightclub owner.

One observer said that Hitler's speech at the Berlin portoplant, an annual fixture at the start of the German winter, was the closest thing to a sane military report he has ever made.

In contrast to the usual rabble-rousing talk, he gave a statement more like a sober report from conservative military men.

The Hitler passage which particularly evoked the interpretation of a reversion to a general holding action follows:

"For this year we have drafted a very simple program. First, hold in all circumstances what must be held; that is, let the enemy run against us wherever we do not intend to advance and let him storm as long as he wants to, hold firmly and wait to see who tires out first. Second, absolutely no announcement of losses even been made by British and American authorities, and numerous recent German naval victory claims have been declared officially to be false or greatly exaggerated."

This was described as a record to U-boat sinkings in a month, surpassing the of May, 1942.

REMEMBERING PITY

CHAPTER XIX

MARTIN appeared already dead. His head had a crushed look and from his nose and the corner of his mouth trickled a thin dark stream.

For the space of a breath that seemed ages long they stood, Peter and Candace, arrested in attitudes of horrified disbelief. The shocked group gathered in the doorway understood that: after all, Dr. Martin Corby, one of their own! "Out on the highway," the policeman was saying. "They hit the back of a truck. You should see their car. Folded up. Like an accordion."

Peter spoke, releasing her. His voice, cool, peremptory, was the voice of a doctor ordering her to duty; mechanically she moved to obey.

Peter's hands were moving swiftly, cutting away cloth, deftly probing. Under those searching fingers Martin stirred, his eyelids fluttered open. He managed what was almost a smile. "No—use, Pete," he gasped painfully. "Number's up."

Peter said gruffly, "Nonsense, boy," but when he straightened from that hurried examination his own face was gray.

Peter's gaze slid beyond him, seemed to search for something; when his eyes fell on Candace he had found it. "Candace," he said, "Candace." Painfully. A mere breath of sound. "It's been all wrong. Wrong. You shouldn't have let me."

Peter nodded at a hovering orderly, then walked away, and a screen was put round Martin and Candace, closing them in alone in a cold white stillness.

Outside in the room a girl was crying. She screamed once, a shrill crescendo of pain and loss, "Martin, Martin!" When he didn't even stir at that, when she knew finally, irrevocably, that Martin never would stir again, Candace left him there and stepped outside the screen, drawn unwillingly, like a sleepwalker, to that

Germans boast of Big Allied Shipping Toll

By WES GALLAGHER

London, Oct. 1 — (AP) — The high command said today that German submarines and bombers sank 161 British and American merchant ships totaling 1,011,700 tons during September, and damaged 22 others.

In addition, a communiqué declared, German surface warships and U-boats sank six destroyers, two auxiliary carriers and three fleet torpedo boats and damaged three destroyers, while German planes sank one cruiser, five destroyers, several patrol escort vessels and numerous motor torpedo boats and landing boats.

These observers, whose anonymity is required, expressed a belief that Hitler had already started withdrawing troops from inactive zones of the east to reinforce Marshal Rommel in Africa, and the forces holding Italy, France and Norway against the prospect of an Allied second front.

OF BRIGHTNESS GONE

with a grief too terrible to be borne, a wild look, a lost look. Candace had seen a look like that once before; in eyes that had stared back at her from a mirror in a lonely hotel bedroom; the pansy-dark eyes of another girl who had lost Martin a long, long time ago. . . . In swift remembering pity she bent to touch the girl's straining hand.

Faith clutched at her fingers, searching her face with a fierce hunger. "Nurse, did he—did he say anything?"

The way of Martin's going had left the other girl with a festering core of bitterness; for her sake this should be a clean wound, one that would heal. Candace lied gently, "He asked for someone named Faith. He said, 'Tell Faith I love her—'"

She turned swiftly, made blindfold for the door. Peter would cover her, he would know she couldn't stand any more.

She was at the doorway as she reached it. "Candace," he said. His voice was warm, and compassionate. For a dizzying instant she fought with a longing to clutch at that girl's hand.

The moment passed. Pity! She hardened herself. She wanted no one's pity. She said bitterly, "Your perfect machine in operation, Doctor. The patient's condition called for something special in the way of treatment, and your machine trotted it out."

His own expression hardened down in the middle of a job." Peter worked with one eye on her and another on the clock. He watched Candace moving about, obeying orders as in a daze, and he was grateful for the confusion that would keep anyone from noticing that or his own distraction. He dreaded the blank moment that would come after the Hartshorne girl had been moved upstairs.

Dr. Patterson had been summoned, other staff members swarmed about; he hoped that the confusion would last until the nurse who was to relieve Candace, and his own relief, had come. He was almost prayerfully thankful when the two turned up practically simultaneously and they were at last free to go.

He threw his topcoat about his shoulders and waited to catch Candace at the outside door through which she must pass. He grasped her elbow and steered her firmly past the nurses' home, down the path to the road. If she was feeling even remotely as he himself felt she wanted to run, she wanted to scream, to release all the emotions pent up inside attack in all circumstances where attack is necessary."

Apart from supposed German withdrawals in inactive areas of the eastern front, observers here believe that divisions heavily mauled in the Stalingrad fighting also are being replaced and withdrawn to Germany for refitting, rebuilding and rest, thence to be sent to France, Norway and Italy instead of back to Russia.

"Winter conditions on the Leningrad and Moscow fronts are rapidly reaching the point where troops can be withdrawn from these sectors as well," one source added.

Some military men stated that the reduction of Stalingrad now had become a matter of prestige rather than of any great military significance.

"The Germans have already reached the Volga at other points, making use of the river impossible," one explained.

The other big effort expected of Hitler before he goes on the winter defensive, it was said, is likely to be an attempt to take the Grozny oil fields in the deep Caucasus, from which German aircraft can harass Russia's hip.

The Santa Anita assembly center is still in the Mississippi river delta region. The Santa Anita movement is still underway.

The Rohwer relocation center, about 15 miles northwest of Arkansas City, covers 10,000 acres and is capable of accommodating 10,000 persons. It now is covered by second growth timber but will be developed into an agricultural center by the immigrants.

An advance party of 220 persons of Japanese descent, sent from Stockton in mid-September, prepared the center for the arrival of the later contingents.

McConnell Given One Year Prison Sentence

Hot Spring, Oct. 1 — (AP) — Frank McConnell, 45, was under a one year prison sentence today for the bold robbery of a Hot Springs theater last spring.

McConnell was sentenced after he pleaded guilty in circuit court yesterday to charges of robbery and assault with intent to rob.

He was accused of holding up the Strand Theater, as Wheatley transferred his office receipts to his office on the mezzanine floor of the theater. Wheatley resisted and the two fought to several minutes before a crowd of theater patrons who were attracted by the noise but did not realize a robbery was attempted.

McConnell escaped in the confusion but was arrested later at Texarkana.

Several shots were fired before the disorder ended but the soldier who was killed was a victim of knife wound. Another was seriously wounded.
